2013 Xiamen Beach Ultimate
9th and 10th November 2013
Guanyinshan Beach – Xiamen City

We are in the final stages of planning the first (and hopefully annual) Xiamen Beach Ultimate tournament. The basic details are outlined below.

Date: 9th & 10th November 2013

Tournament Cost / Format
Between 200-300RMB

Saturday lunch, Saturday dinner + Party, and Sunday Lunch.

Hat format (might change in proceeding years)

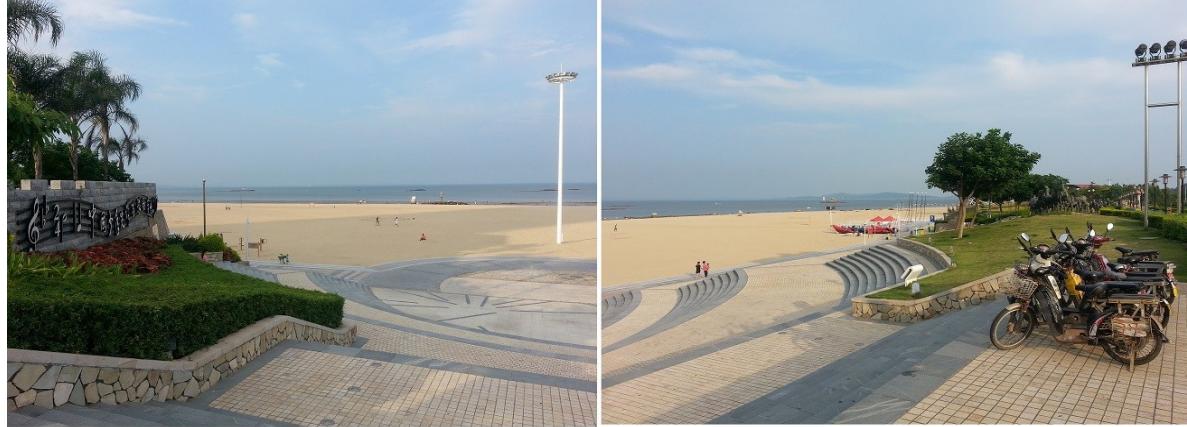

Beach Facilities

- Guanyinshan beach has enough space for 20+ beach ultimate fields.
 - Beach playing area is not affected by tides.
- Hoardings and tents will keep crowds (there won't be many crowds as Xiamen has 10+km of beaches) out of playing area.
- Beach is not ideal for swimming. Only during the 4 hours of high tide is it ok for swimming.
- No camping on the beach.
- There is a large water theme park at the far end of the beach. (www.fantasybeach.cn)
- 25 meters from playing location, we have: -
 - Bar / Restaurant (part of a sailing club)
 - 20 male + female, modern toilets and showers
 - Saturday night party location (location to be finalised)

Tournament Timing

- Saturday and Sunday
- Typhoon season is from June to September, while late October is the least windy period of the month.
- Expect Hangzhou tournament the following weekend.

How to get to Xiamen

- Xiamen is connected by high speed train to Shanghai, Hangzhou and Ningbo. By this time next year, the high speed train to Shenzhen will be in operation. The train station is 15km from beach.
- Xiamen international airport (13km from beach) has many international and domestic flights

Xiamen Island (city)

- Xiamen is a popular, subtropical, tourist city for Chinese nationals.
- Lifestyle is relatively laid back. Air is usually clear / clean.
- Average temperature is 18-25 degrees throughout the day/night in early Nov
- Winds can get up to 8 knots in the afternoon (similar to Boracay)
- We've been playing ultimate in Xiamen for 18 months (mostly local players).
